

ABSTRACT

A system and method for forming an optical image having a screen on which is displayed an image which is to be reproduced on an image display plane. The image on the screen is optically transmitted in the form of a plurality of blocks to the image display plane and a block deflecting system associated with the display plane receives the plurality of optically transmitted blocks and displays them in the proper order on the image display plane.

00995715-122297
/62222T"5T/56680